ESTUDIO MARISCAL

These bottles not only renew the appearance of bottles, but they also bring together, in a single image, the two drinks that are most traditionally served at table.

Designing tableware is very pleasing for architects and designers. For Estudio Mariscal it is a challenge that is done with taste and with the desire to improve everyday life by means of objects that are humorous, but that have qualities that go beyond their function and use. The design of Ilvino & Laigua bottles not only changes the traditional appearance, but also brings the two liquids together in a single image, thanks to their flat rear that enables them to be put together as if they were a single object. They work because it is comfortable to take hold of them and pour the water or the wine.
