ESTUDIO MARISCAL

We started with a classic shape to derive it into a current, very comfortable chair.

The Orson chair is a dining chair, but above all it is a chair for sitting in and chatting after a meal, so it is extremely comfortable and very generously sized. It was based on a classic shape which has derived into an open, communicative chair, with its arms shaping a gesture that gives air to the body and, at the same time, gives it character.

The seat and the back are a single piece of curved, plywood meaning that the back can adapt to the rocking movement of the body. The legs and the arms are made of stained wood or natural oak. It is manufactured in two versions: completely upholstered, in a single colour or combined colours, and with wooden arms.
